This item is printed on demand - Print on Demand Neuware - Seminar paper from the year 2003 in the subject Politics - International Politics - Region: USA, grade: 1,0, University of Potsdam, course: Public policy and institutions, 13 entries in the bibliography, language: English, comment: This paper was written during an internship at the U.S. House of Representatives and is the preparatory work for my master thesis. , abstract: The dominant player in international politics is unmistakably the United States of America. U.S. economic, military and cultural superiority is shaping world politics and setting the stage for the next generation. U.S. foreign policy features the image of the United States President and to a lesser extent that of the Secretary of State and Defense. They are the predominant figures that drive U.S. foreign policy on the international stage. The system of checks and balances neatly involves two branches of government executive and legislative in a construct of interdependence. Congress is the government branch of the people . The two-year term cycles for House Representatives and the large number of districts make Congress the most representative institution in the...
