Excerpt: . . . then, in another voice, Make haste and take it before any one comes in. Thanks, he said, coolly pocketing the money; you have rendered me an immense service. I am glad to hear it, for I am afraid, as I told you yesterday, it would be the last one I should be able to render you. You dont speak as kindly as you did yesterday, said Malloret, with rather a hard manner. Perhaps I dont feel the same. Women vary, you know. However, I hope you will give me no further occasion for reproaches. I trust I shall never see you after to-day. You are getting more impolite every minute, he said, with a disagreeable smile, and I have no doubt that you will be surprised to hear that I have just been struck by an idea, which, however, I fear is not at...
